American Heritage Magazine accepts unsolicited proposals from established freelance writers for features and some departments. The following submission form and guidelines have been developed to allow you to provide all of the basic information we need to make an initial determination about your proposal and about you as a writer.

Please include the following information, in this form, on one sheet of paper or in the body of an email to jrodibaugh@americanheritage.com. Please do not send attachments.

- Have you written for American Heritage Magazine or AmericanHeritage.com before?

- Please list some of your publishing credits. Please include samples or URLs to your published articles or clips.

- Indicate the subject area or department that best fits the article you are proposing. Type your specific proposal subject or the title of your manuscript (e.g. The History of the Fountain Pen). Please limit your proposal to approximately 1,000 words.

GUIDELINES

All unsolicited proposals are sent to us on speculation. In sending a proposal to American Heritage Publishing, you understand that you are sending the information for consideration. This does not constitute an agreement to publish your work. Please do not send full manuscripts.

If you have supporting material or clips of your previously published work available online, please include the URLs. If we decide to commission an article, the writer receives full payment on acceptance of the manuscript. If the article is found unsuitable, payment will not be issued, and American Heritage Publishing will revert all rights back to the author. Please use footnotes and annotations as necessary to aid our staff in assessing the accuracy of your article.

All submissions should be on standard (8.5 x 11) typed, double-spaced pages. Each page should contain the author's name, address, telephone number, and e-mail address on the first page, not on a cover letter alone. Submissions must be available in electronic form as well.

Illustrations are not the responsibility of authors, but it is helpful to know what photographic possibilities exist regarding your subject. Photographs published in the magazine are usually obtained by our Illustrations Editor.

American Heritage Magazine is buying first North American serial rights only. We do not consider fiction, poetry, or previously published articles. We have a three-month lead time.
